ACADEMIC, PROFESSIONAL, AND MINISTERIAL PREPARATION: BRIEF GRADUATE DEGREE PROGRAM DESCRIPTIONS

Alliant International University, AKA California School of Professional Psychology and United States International University (CSPP/USIU), Irvine, CA

Doctor in Marriage and Family Therapy Program Alliant International University constitutes the merger of two time honored and highly respected California School of Psychology Programs, the California School of Professional Psychology and the United States International University. Each of the combined schools enjoys a long reputation for training psychologists with a broad range of specialized interests. The Alliant University Doctoral Program in Marriage and Family Therapy leads to either licensure as a psychologist or marriage and family therapist; it is one of the oldest accredited doctoral programs in marriage and family therapy in the United States. The program is accredited by the Commission on the Accreditation of Marriage and Family Therapy Programs (COAMFT), and by the American Association of Marriage and Family Therapists (AAMFT).

Fuller Theological Seminary School of Theology Pasadena, California

Master of Divinity Degree Program

Fuller Theological Seminary hosts an international global community, and its graduates represent almost every evangelical faith expression and tradition. The Master of Divinity Program is 144 units in length, and coursework covers a broad array of disciplines, such as Biblical theology, philosophical theology, practical pastoral theology, pastoral care and counseling, church history and culture, ethics, required language studies in Greek and Hebrew, with optional language studies in Latin, French, and German, church leadership studies using MBA level materials, Biblical exegesis, and global ministry motifs. Graduates are well prepared for pastoral positions, as well as for doctoral studies in other integrative disciplines.

California State University, Fullerton, California Masters of Science in Counseling Psychology Program.

The Masters in Counseling Psychology Program at the California State University in Fullerton, California emphasizes a systemic approach to marriage and family therapy. The program is based on the scholar/practitioner model and is deeply embedded in family system's theory and practice. The program teaches and emphasizes strengths in more traditional psychodynamic therapies, while simultaneously emphasizing the necessity of integrating such traditional models with contemporary, more progressive, brief term therapies, which are often utilized by HMO's and PPO's in an age of health care expenditure cost cutting. The program meets the educational requirements for licensure as a licensed marriage and family therapist in California (LMFT).

CURRENT RESEARCH INTERESTS FORMATTED FOR UNDERGRADUATES

- SONA research using advanced Genogram science with focus on race, ethnicity and culture in family dynamics.
- Genogram Research using Genograms conducted with almost 400 undergraduate students from 2004 to 2016. This research has been presented at conferences in presentation form and in poster form.
- The application of family systems theory to an understanding of social justice in communities. This research is designed to help undergraduate students better understand the role of system dynamics in community harmony and disharmony.
- Family therapy across the world's religions, focusing on a necessary reflection on cultural and religious themes in world religions and the application of spiritual family therapy through the lens of those religions.
- The dialogical existentialism of Martin Buber and its relationship to Paul Tillich and ontological anxiety. Conference presentations and posters

- The integration of family systems theory to missionary and other organizational milieus in multi-cultural settings.
- The dialogical philosophy of Martin Buber and its application to existential theory in the writings of prominent existential theologians, philosophers and psychologists
- History of family system's models and integration with Christian psychotherapy
- Parent/infant psychotherapy: neurological, familial, and environmental influences
- The construction and refinement of contemporary brief therapy models, allowing for an integration of some of the best theory and content of longer term, traditional models
- Preventive measures in diagnosing and treating pre-schizophrenia and the use of cognitive behavioral therapy to prevent or delay insidious symptoms
- Parallel processes between child, adolescent, and adult development and the movement from "New Christian" to "Seasoned Christian" during life span development
- Roles of Old Testament and New Testament priests and parallel processes between the ministries of Old and New Testament priests and contemporary Christian individual and family psychotherapists. This may significantly enhance value of major for many.

PASTORAL AND PROFESSIONAL SERVICE TO THE COMMUNITY

First Baptist Church of Pomona, California. Adult Bible Study and Marriage and Family Teacher, 2002 to 2020

Teach middle-aged adult couples entry-level university material in the area of integrative biblical studies and marriage and family therapy. Heavy focus on constructing an emotionally intelligent marriage and raising emotionally intelligent pre-adolescent and adolescent youth. Strong emphasis on scriptural themes, such as encouragement and unity in building healthy marriage and families. Emphasis on adult development, adolescent development, and integrative life role development.

First Baptist Church of Pomona, California: Support Group Assistance, Ministry Group Leadership 2001-2004

Assist a team of group facilitators in setting up and facilitating support groups addressing a number of issues such as overeating, depression and anxiety, co-dependency, substance abuse, divorce recovery, and struggles with sexual addictions. Collaborative clinical consultations offered to APU master's degree and doctoral degree practicum and pre-doctoral intern students.

Immanuel Baptist Church of Long Beach, California: 1993 to 1995, Interim Pastor, Director of Christian Education and Youth

Served as full time director of education and youth, as well as interim senior pastor in a ethnically and racially diverse urban church. Performed all ministry with a strong pastoral care emphasis focused on family and community needs. Emphasis on church and community in multiethnic, multicultural urban areas, church growth and program development opportunities. Further emphasis on applicable contemporary ethical standards with reflection on anecdotal examples from Biblical stories and characters.

Calvary Baptist Church of Hawthorne, California: 1993, Interim Pastor. Position demanded strong clinical pastoral abilities, as church was in an acute crisis over the loss of full-time pastor and church members were grieving and discouraged. Emphasis was on practical pastoral theology and pastoral care. Further emphasis placed on outreach to a congregation of ethnically and racially diverse adults in the Hawthorne/Inglewood area of Los Angeles.
